

When and Why Foreign Language Teaching and Learning are Successful

Flavia Laviosa

Senior Lecturer in Italian Studies
Wellesley College
Massachusetts, United States

13th and 16th December, 2010

Facoltà di Lingue e Letterature Straniere
Via Garruba 6/B, Bari

Monday, 13 December
4:30-6:00pm, Aula 1

Seminar 1:
When Reading Comprehension
Questions are Really Useful

Moving away from textbook generated 'comprehension questions', participants will explore more dynamic and participatory forms of reading. The purpose of this seminar is to offer alternative ideas to pre- and post- reading questions and to illustrate activities that help students interact with the text, explore their interpretations, and develop reading confidence.

Thursday, 16 December
2:30-4:00pm, Aula 10

Seminar 2:
Hyper-Writing: Motion and Emotion Set to Text

Writing is the ability to express meaning and communicate a message. The teaching of this skill tends to be methodical, aseptic, sedentary, and claustrophobic if conducted only within the walls and halls of one's institution. The goal of this seminar is to foster students' multiple intellectual strengths and explore multimodal forms of writing.

Each seminar is limited to 50 participants. To reserve a place in one or both seminars, please send a message to s.laviosa@lingue.uniba.it
